OREGON INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY OFFERING BA IN RENEWABLES

The Oregon Institute of Technology (OIT) recently graduated its first student with a Bachelor of Science degree in Renewable Energy Systems - the first such degree in North America.

Currently, there are 55 students enrolled in the Renewable Energy Systems Degree Program, which is located on the university's East Portland campus and also in Klamath Falls. Graduates of the program will be prepared to enter fields involving photovoltaics, wind, biomass, hydropower and geothermal energy.
